

[Letter from Harold Spivacke to John A. Lomax; University Station, Austin, TX]

April 28, 1939

Mr. John A. Lomax University Station Austin, Texas

Dear Mr. Lomax:

I have ordered the additional needles for you and they should reach you soon.

Your report is very encouraging indeed and I am anxiously looking forward to the opportunity of hearing about it from you personally.

The batteries were shipped by our mail division and I presume emptied by them. Perhaps the express company insists on this. But at any rate I am glad to hear that they are working again.

I only receive very sketchy reports from Alan. In fact I feel that I must talk to him about this when he next comes to Washington.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Spivacke Chief, Division of Music
